HENRY PROULX DEAD. IN OLD CUTLER BARN. Body Found by George Harwood, of Westerly, and Peter Durand.

The body of Henry Proulx, 56, was found in the old Cutler barn, on the road leading to the Children's home, Monday morning, by George Harwood of Westerly and Peter Durand, mill hands, who were walking from Chepachet to this city.

Harwood and Durand summoned help and notice of the finding of the body was sent to Medical Examiner J. A. Anderson, who has given permission for its removal to this city.

The Cutler barn, a tumble-down structure, has been the habitat of a state police officer several years and on occasion has been raided by the police and as many as a score of perverts arrested there in a time. Proulx, who has been employed in a mill here, evidently went into the place to sleep and died of heart failure. He was a transient person and little is known about him here. It was learned, however, that Charles Richards, a liquor dealer, and Joseph Gagne, a bartender, both of Arctic, R. I., are relatives of Proulx and they were notified of his death.

Applying This Paste Actually Removes Hairs

(Beauty Notes) Merely applying an inexpensive paste to the hairy surface, say beauty specialists, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered delatone; after about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment, be careful to get real delatone.
